Of the Coursens in France

The ancestors of Peter Coursen, the French Huguenot, who emigrated from France to New Amsterdam in 1612, originated in Bretagne (Brittany), France. They were ancient, influential and possessors of large landed estates, as the records indicate.

In the French volume of ancient armorial bearings and crests (illustrated), and entitled, "Armorial General Reitstap I. A. K. Tome," the French Coat of Arms of the Coursen branches are as follows:

Of the Baron de Coursen—also of the Compe (Count) de Coursen as shown by illustrations. Also the coat of arms of the Coursen family now in use by their American descendants in Pennsylvania and Staten Island, as follows:

"Three owls (facing you) upon a background of "gold—with the motto 'Toujours Droit—Coursen.'"

M. Aurelien de Coursen, the eminent French historian, in one of his works, published in Paris in 1863, entitled "Du Ve au XIIe Siecle-La Bretagne," gives valuable historic information of Bretagne (Brittany), France, and its ancient inhabitants.

Of Peter Coursen the First French Huguenot Emigrant from France to New Amsterdam in 1612

Who was probably one of the First French Settlers in America, in the Dutch Colony of New Netherlands (New Amsterdam), which began to colonize in 1611

THE ORIGIN OF THE COURSEN FAMILY AND THEIR DESCENDANTS IN AMERICA

Compiled from ancient Colonial records of New Amsterdam and the early and modern records of the State of New York, as an appendix to the history by Hiram Corson, M.D., entitled, "The Corson Family," by Percival Glenroy Ullman, counsellor at law, of Staten Island, N. Y., is as follows:

PETER COURSEN THE 1ST, French Huguenot refugee and founder of the family, arrived in New Amsterdam, in America, in the year 1612, one year after the date of the first colonization of New Amsterdam by the Dutch, as the records show was commenced in 1611. (See the International Cyclopædia, 1892 issue, p. 587, under the title of New York.)

Woodruff, in his volume entitled, "The Coursens of Sussex County, New Jersey," says, on page 1:

"The Coursen ancestors originated in Walloon, France; that Cornelius Piertertse Vroom or Froome, was born in 1611/12, in a hamlet in Holland called 'Langeraer or Langerak,' and came from France to America by way of Holland. He refers to the following records as his source of information, namely, 'The Calendar of Dutch MSS.,' pp. 5-62, and Collection of New York MSS., Vol. I, p. 72."

I have made a careful examination of each of said volumes and fail to find such date of birth, hamlet or places named. Neither do they appear upon any map or in any encyclopædia. Therefore there is no doubt that Woodruff, the author, was mistaken, but it is very probable that he intended Langes, a hamlet in France, near the border of Belgium, for Langeraer or Langerak, so named in his book.

The origin of the Coursens in France was in Bretagne (Brittany), where the Coursen name is frequently found upon ancient French records, and up to the present period. M. Aurelien de Coursen, the French historian, in 1863 thus appears as a native of that place.

Peter Coursen the 1st, who emigrated to New Amsterdam in 1612, had the following issue:

JAN COURSEN (his son), born not later than 1608 in France. (See Woodruff, p. 1; also Clute, p. 359.)

ARENDT COURSEN (his son), a soldier in Fort Nassau, in 1633. (See Register of New Netherland, p. 49.)

HISTORY

ARENDT gave a power of attorney to Covert Lookerman, of New Amsterdam, dated August 4th, 1642, to receive moneys from one David Provost. (See Calendar of the N. Y. Historical MSS., Part I, p. 19.)

I regard this as a remarkable coincidence, for the reason that Covert Lookerman, of New Amsterdam, of that date (his descendants changed the spelling of his name to Lookman, lastly to Lockman) was the direct ancestor of my great-grandfather, Samuel Lockman, of Manhattan, who married Catharine Crowal, March 16th, 1790 (see Clute, p. 402), and whose daughter, Henrietta Maria, married Richard Corson (Coursen) in the year 1820.

Samuel Lockman was a shipping merchant, whose warehouses and residence were on the corner of Broad and Water Streets, where his daughter, Henrietta Maria, was born February 14th, 1806.

ARENDT had one Moerheart Laurens Cornelison arrested in 1644, for expressing himself disrespectfully of one Doretor Kieft. (See Coll. of N. Y. Historical MSS., p. 28.) William Kieft was Governor of New Amsterdam from 1638 to 1647. Doretor was probably his daughter.

He was a plaintiff on August 25th, 1645. (See same, p. 911.) He married Angenetta Gillis, who, after his decease, applied for a marriage license on July 18th, 1647. (See N. Y. Historical MSS. (Dutch), pp. 111-316.)

JEAN COURSEN (a son of Peter the 1st) married Catharine van Campen, in New Amsterdam, in 1619. Doubtless he was born in France, emigrated to New Amsterdam with his father Peter in 1612, and resided there seven years prior to his marriage. (See Records of the Huguenot Society of America, in New York City, for which I am greatly indebted to Mrs. James M. Lawton, the Secretary to the Society.)

CORNELIUS CORSEN (a son of Peter the 1st) and apparently his eldest child, and a brother to JAN, JEAN and ARENDT, was called and commonly known by his New Amsterdam neighbors from 1612, as "Cors. Pietertse Vroom or Fromm," in the following manner: Pietertse is a Dutch word, meaning in English, "a son of Peter"; "Fromm," then spelled Vroom, is also a Dutch word, translated in English means Pious. "Cors," then often used, was meant as an abbreviation of the name Cornelius. Thus translating the name as he was called in New Amsterdam, of "Cors Pietertse Vroom or Fromm." Translated it meant Cornelius, the son of Peter the Pious, and therefore it is clear that by so designating him his good neighbors of New Amsterdam did not intend to change his true name of Cornelius Coursen, who was in fact the son of Peter, who, no doubt, was a pious member of the Reformed Dutch Church at that period.

Such misnomers were then customary and frequent. However, "Bergen," at the time he wrote his book (see p. 383), did not understand the Dutch language and thought that the Coursens had changed their names to Vroom, as he states.

For the translation of the words, Vroome, Fromm and Pietertse, see Woodruff, p. 12.

Cornelius Coursen (whom I designate the 1st, who was a son of Peter the 1st) married one Tryntje Hendricks, who, after his decease in the year 1657, made a petition to the Orphan Masters of New Amsterdam, dated September 19th, 1657, for the guardianship of their children, in which she describes her deceased husband as "Cors. Peterson," and in the same instrument states the names of their children as "Corssen." The explanation for an apparent change of her husband Cornelius Coursen's name to "Cors Peterson" is that Cors. meant Cornelius," as I have before explained, and "Peterson" meant Peter's son. Therefore, by such misnomer she had no intention of changing her husband's name.

In her Petition, among other things, she states as follows:

"Cornelis Corssen 12 years old." Peter Corssen 6 years old "and Hendrick Corssen 3 years old."

She also describes the location of their home as follows:

"On the North Side of Pearl Street in this city. Bounded on "the South by said Street. West by Isaac Gravenaad, North by "Fort Amsterdam. On the East by Peter Couwenhoven." (See Register of the Minutes of the Orphan Masters of New Amsterdam, page 40.)

A Royal Patent of the above described plot was granted by the Dutch Government to her husband on June 21st, 1647, described as follows:

"Of the lot South of Fort Amsterdam." (See Register of Land Papers, page 372.)

I have succeeded in locating the residence plot of Cornelius Coursen the 1st, occupied by himself and his said wife and children from 1647, when he became its owner, until his decease in 1657, as the following letter will show:

"The Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York
42 Cedar Street—N. Y. City

"Dear Sir—Let me acknowledge the receipt of your letter of "Feb. 1st. In answer to your inquiry about the exact Location "of the former Fort Amsterdam, allow me to say—That it is "rather hard to give such information in a letter.

"The Fort was of course at the lower end of Manhattan Island "approximately on the site of the custom house etc. etc.

Yours Very Truly
CARIS E. Du PONT,
Deputy Secretary.

To Percival G. Ullman, Esq., 45 Broadway, N. Y. City.

Their children were baptized as follows:

CORNELIUS (the 2nd), in New Amsterdam Reformed Dutch Church, April 23rd, 1645.

PETER (the 2nd), in New Amsterdam Reformed Dutch Church, March 5th, 1651.

HENDRICK, in New Amsterdam Dutch Reformed Church, November 3rd, 1653.

(See New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, Baptisms in the Reformed Dutch Church of North America; also Bergen, p. 383.)

PETER COURSEN, the 2nd, a son of Cornelius the 1st, born in 1651, married Catharine Van der Beek, who was the widow of one Daniel Rehanco, on October 19th, 1679, and resided in Brooklyn, N. Y., where his son Peter held the office of County Clerk of Kings County, N. Y. in 1739. (See Bergen, p. 383.) He appears as grantor in Kings County (see Liber I of Deeds, p. 180) in 1689.

HENDRICK COURSEN, a son of Cornelius the 1st and a grandson of Peter the 1st, born in 1653; baptized November 3rd, 1653. Adopted the name of Vroom, by which his father, Cornelius Coursen the 1st, had been called by the church members of New Amsterdam, whether through ignorance of his true name of Coursen or by previous habit I am unable to state.

He married Josina Pieterse Van Ness in 1677. His name appears in the Assessment Rolls of Brooklyn in 1683 and 1693. He finally settled at Raritan, near New Brunswick, in the State of New Jersey, and became the ancestor of Governor Vroome of that State. His issue were as follows:

CORNELIUS, baptized March 6th, 1679.

RACHAEL, who married Christopher Van Zant.

HENDRICK, baptized May 7th, 1683, whose first wife was Jannetje Bergen; his second wife was Dartie Demond.

ALFRED, baptized April 6th, 1690. (See Bergen, pp. 382-3.)

TRYNTJE HENDRICKS, the widow of Cornelius Coursen the 1st and mother of Cornelius the 2nd, Peter the 2nd and Hendrick, married one Frederick Lubbertsen, of Brooklyn, on August 3rd, 1657. (See Bergen, pp. 382-3.) This same Frederick Lubbertsen was selected in 1642 by the Dutch Government in New Amsterdam as one of twelve men to punish the Indians for murder. (See The N. Y. Civil List, issue 1870, p. 5.)

HISTORY

New Amsterdam (New Netherland) was first colonized in 1611. (See International Cyclopædia, issue 1892, p. 587.)

Hendrick Hudson discovered the Hudson River in 1609. Peter Coursen the 1st located in New Amsterdam in 1612, one year later after the first colonization. Manhattan was bought from the Indians in 1624. The population of New Amsterdam when Peter the 1st located was considerably less than 300.

In the New York Public Library is a book printed in Holland in 1651, with an engraving of old Fort Amsterdam (on the land now occupied by the United States Custom House) at the lower end of Manhattan, showing the old Fort as it appeared in 1650, with about thirty dwelling houses close to its north side and five or six houses near its south side, one of which was the home of Cornelius Coursen the 1st (the son of Peter the 1st) and for which he received a Royal Dutch Patent June 21st, 1647 (see land papers, p. 372), and in which he resided with his wife, Tryntje Hendricks, and their children, Cornelius the 2nd, Peter the 2nd and Hendrick, until his decease in 1657, and which premises are described in the petition for the appointment of a guardian for his children by his widow, Tryntje Hendricks, to the Orphan Masters of New Amsterdam, dated September 19th, 1657. (See Register of the Minutes of the Orphan Masters of New Amsterdam, p. 40.)

This engraving, taken prior to 1651, shows the home of Cornelius the 1st four years after he received his Dutch patent conveying it to him in 1647 and six years prior to his death in 1657. He resided there at the time this picture including his house, was taken.

Thus making the colonial record of Cornelius the 1st given in this book from the earliest settlement of New Amsterdam, when his French Huguenot father, Peter, arrived there with him in 1612, unprecedented and extraordinary, as in the following order:

HISTORY

First. The record of Cornelius the 1st begins with his arrival with his father, Peter the 1st, in New Amsterdam in 1612.

Second. His action to recover the interest of his wife, Tryntje Hendricks, in the estate of her deceased mother from her brother in 1638, named Adam Roelantsen. (See Coll. of N. Y. Historical MSS., p. 62.)

Third. The Royal Dutch Patent of his home on the lot bounded north by Fort Amsterdam, on June 21st, 1647. (See land papers, p. 372.)

Fourth. The petition of his widow, Tryntje Hendricks, to the Orphan Masters for guardianship of their children, Cornelius the 2nd, Peter the 2nd and

Hendrick, on September 19th, 1657. (See Register of the Minutes of the Orphan Masters of New Amsterdam, p. 40.)

Fifth. The marriage of his widow, Tryntje Hendricks, to Frederick Lubbertsen on August 3rd, 1657. (See Bergen, p. 383.)

Sixth. The baptism of his children in the Reformed Dutch Church of New Amsterdam, as follows:

CORNELIUS (the 2nd), on April 23rd, 1645.

PETER (the 2nd), on March 5th, 1651.

HENDRICK, on November 3rd, 1653.

(See Bergen, p. 383, and N. Y. Genealogical and Biographical Society, Baptisms in the R. D. Church of N. A.)

Seventh. An engraving of the house occupied by himself and family from June 21st, 1647, the date he received a Dutch Royal Patent for it, until his decease in 1657, which can be seen in the engraving in the Dutch book in the Historical Room in the New York Public Library, printed in Amsterdam, Holland, in 1651, and the copy in this book. Following the colonial history of Cornelius Coursen the 1st at short connected intervals from 1612, gathered from sparse and incomplete records of that wild and early period, beginning three years after the discovery of the Hudson River, in 1609, and being able in the year 1917 to look upon the picture of the house and land lying on the south side of Fort Amsterdam, in which he lived and for which he received the Royal Dutch patent on June 21st, 1647 (see land papers, p. 372), as it now distinctly appears in the little Dutch book in the New York Public Library and which was printed in Holland in 1651, is unequaled in the records of any colonial family in America and is a subject of great interest.

The Dutch book of New Amsterdam, printed in 1651, above referred to, will be found in the Historical Room of the New York Public Library, and copies of the engraving in the book of "Old New York," by Anson Phelps Stokes, also there, and of which the following is a copy of the original.

A SON OF CORNELIUS THE 1ST A GRANDSON OF PETER THE 1ST

AND

Founder of the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the Staten Island Branches of the COURSEN FAMILY

CAPTAIN CORNELIUS COURSEN, the son of Cornelius the 1st and grandson of Peter the 1st, and who is designated as Cornelius the 2nd, was born in New Amsterdam in 1645; baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of New Amsterdam on April 23rd, 1645 (see Bergen, p. 383; also Reg. Bapt. in R. D. Church of N. A.); located with his parents on Pearl Street, south of Fort Amsterdam, in Manhattan, in June, 1647 (see Register of Land Papers, p. 372), and moved to Brooklyn with his mother and her second husband, Frederick Lubbertsen, whom she married after the decease of Cornelius the 1st, on August 3rd, 1657, and where Cornelius the 2nd (later known as Captain) married Maretje Jacobse Van Der Grift on March 11th, 1666 (see Bergen, p. 383), and where their son. Cornelius the 3rd, was born in 1667.

Cornelius the 2nd appears on Brooklyn, Kings County, Assessment Rolls in 1675-6 and as a member of the Reformed Dutch Church of Brooklyn in 1677 (see Bergen, p. 383) and located on Staten Island in 1678, where he was appointed a Captain of Militia by the English Government. (See Bergen, p. 383, and Colony of Englishmen, pp. 132-7.)

He organized on Staten Island a large land investment company and received royal patents of large tracts, one covering the village of Port Richmond. (See copies annexed; also patents in New Jersey.)

The following is a copy of his Last Will and Testament:

"Cors. Corssen [Seale]

"Sealed and Subscribed by the said Cornelis Corssen in the presence of Cornelis X nephews—Peter X Staes, Tho. Carhartt

"Probated Dec 7th 1693"

Note that he signs "Cors." for Cornelius and Corssen for Coursen in 1693. Also note that he received a royal patent of lands thirteen years prior, dated December 30th, 1680, under his true name (correctly spelled), "Captain Cornelius Coursen," twelve years prior to the date of his will in 1692.

The issue of Captain Cornelius Coursen (Cornelius the 2nd) were as follows:

His son, CORNELIUS (the 3rd), died on Staten Island intestate prior to 1732. As his deed of his one-sixth part of the lands inherited from his father, Captain Cornelius the 2nd, to his brother Jacob, who had recorded deeds from each of the children of Cornelius the 2nd, dated in 1698 and 1711. The deed of Cornelius the 3rd does not appear of record. As their deeds, which were acknowledged after their respective dates, to wit: four in 1732 and one in 1742 -thus showing that none of these deeds were acknowledged at the date of their execution and could not be recorded until after they were duly acknowledged, long after their respective dates. It is apparent that the reason the deed of Cornelius the 3rd's one-sixth share is not recorded is that when he signed and delivered it to his brother Jacob, like the other heirs had done, that he was deceased in 1732 when the other heirs acknowledged their deeds of 1698 for the purpose of enabling their brother Jacob to record them, and therefore the deed of Cornelius the 3rd could not be recorded for want of proper acknowledgment.

BENJAMIN COURSEN (a son of Captain Cornelius the 2nd) settled in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, in the year 1726. (See Hiram, p. 13.) He conveyed his one-sixth part in the plantation he inherited from his father, Captain Cornelius the 2nd, to his brother Jacob by his deed dated March 24th, 1711, recorded in Liber "C," page 444, on December 8th, 1742, Richmond County.

The name of his wife was Nelly.

For his descendants, originally in Bucks County, Pa., see "The Corson Family," by Hiram Corson, M.D., for the history of his numerous and prominent descendants, in the New York Public Library.

CATHARINE COURSEN (a daughter of Captain Cornelius the 2nd and the wife of Peterson Staats) conveyed her one-sixth interest in her father's plantation to her brother, Jacob Coursen, by her deed dated September 28th, 1698, acknowledged and recorded later on September 7th, 1732, in Liber "C" of Deeds, p. 430, Richmond County.

CORNELIA, daughter of Captain Cornelius Coursen the 2nd and the wife of Hendrick Cruser, conveyed her one-sixth part in her father's plantation to her brother Jacob, by her deed dated September 28th, 1698, recorded in Liber "C" of Deeds, page 434, in 1732, in Richmond County.

Their issue were several children, who were baptized on Staten Island between 1698 and 1716. (See Clute, p. 366.)

The following deed of Christian and the foregoing records of deeds show that Captain Cornelius Coursen of Staten Island had six children, not specifically mentioned by name in his Will of 1692, whose names were Cornelius the 3rd, Jacob, Christian, Benjamin, Catharine, and Cornelia, each of whom became seized and possessed of an undivided one-sixth part of the real estate devised to them by will of their father, Captain Cornelius Corssen (Coursen) the 2nd.

CHRISTIAN CORSEN (the son of Captain Cornelius Coursen the 2nd) and his wife Antea conveyed his one-sixth part of his father's plantation to his brother Jacob, by deed dated September 28th, 1698, acknowledged December 2nd, 1732, and recorded in Liber "C" in page 432, December 2nd, 1732, in Richmond County. His Will, dated February 5th, 1762; recorded in New York County, Liber 25, page 212. His issue were Daniel, Cornelius and Neltie, the wife of Francis Gebrantz.

He was the second Judge of His Majesty's Court of Common Pleas in Richmond County, Staten Island; also a Lieutenant-Colonel in 1738. (See Clute, p. 359, and the following deeds in Richmond County, Libers "B," pp. 62-629; "O," p. 96, and several others.)

A SHORT HISTORY OF JACOB, SON OF CAPTAIN CORNELIUS COURSEN THE 2ND, OF STATEN ISLAND

September 15th, 1750, he made application for a ferry franchise between his lands and Bergen, N. J. (See Cal. of N. Y. Coll. of MSS., p. 258.)

His will, recorded in New York County in Liber 20 of Wills, page 51, was dated October 8th, 1742. It names his wife, Elizabeth, and his children, Benjamin, Jacob, Suster, Mary, and Rebecca.

He was a Lieutenant-Colonel of Militia in 1741, and bequeathed his silver-hilted sword with silk sash, now in possession of the family of Hiram Corson, of Staten Island. He was also a Captain. (See Clute, p. 359, and recorded deeds, Liber "C," p. 265; Liber "D," pp. 162-531.)

This patent was to Capt. Cornelius Coursen the 2nd.

Of Cornelius the 3rd

WHO WAS A SON OF CAPTAIN CORNELIUS THE 2ND, OF STATEN ISLAND, AND A GRANDSON OF
CORNELIUS THE 1ST, OF NEW AMSTERDAM

CORNELIUS COURSEN THE 3RD, who was the eldest son of Captain Cornelius the 2nd, was born in Brooklyn in 1667/8. His mother was Martje Jacobse Van Der Grift, who married his father, Captain Cornelius Coursen, on March 11th, 1666, and removed with his parents in 1678 to Staten Island. (See Bergen, p. 383.) Of Cornelius the 6th

A Son of Cornelius the 5th and a Great-Great-Grandson of Captain Cornelius

Coursen the 2nd, of Staten Island

CORNELIUS CORSON (COURSEN), the eldest son of Cornelius the 5th, and known in this History as Cornelius the 6th. He was born upon his father's plantation, located on the east shores of Staten Island, and resided there until his decease upon the portion of 125 acres of the original 500-acre plantation left by his father, Cornelius the 5th, and which in 1803 was divided between himself and his brothers, Richard and Daniel. Through this farm he laid out an avenue and named it "Corson Avenue," which was later changed by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt to the present "Vanderbilt Avenue," the main thoroughfare through the centre of Staten Island.

The year prior to his decease (1831) he sold a large tract from it to the State of New York, and for many years it was known as the "Seamen's Retreat Hospital." It is now owned and used by the United States Government.

He died in 1832, on June 20th. His first wife was named Jane. His second wife was Louisa, the eldest daughter of Samuel Lookman, Esq., a descendant of Covert Lookerman (Lookman), last pronounced and spelled "Lockman," who emigrated from Holland to New Amsterdam in the caravel "St. Martyn," in 1633. (See Clute, p. 401.)

Samuel Lockman was a shipping merchant, whose residence and warehouses were located at the corner of Broad and Water Streets, Manhattan, and where Louisa Corson and her sister (my grandmother), Henrietta Maria Corson, his daughter, was born on February 14th, 1806. They resided there until 1812, in which year Samuel Lockman settled upon his plantation of 240 acres on Staten Island, near a place now called Oakwood on the south shores of the island, and upon which stood his two-story stone dwelling (the second two-story house on the island, the first being known as the "Billopp House" and used as the revolutionary quarters of Lord Howe (as I was informed by my grandmother, Mrs. Henrietta M. Corson), and conveyed to him by Daniel W. Lake in 1812.

Louisa, the daughter of Samuel Lockman and the sister of Henrietta Maria Corson, became the second wife of Cornelius Corson the 6th. Thereby creating the peculiar relationship between herself, her husband, Cornelius the 6th, and my grandmother, Henrietta Maria (Lockman) Corson, by reason of such marriage, which made her the mother-in-law of her own sister, Henrietta Maria, who was married to Richard Corson, the son of her husband, Cornelius Corson the 6th, who at the same time was both the father-in-law and the brother-in-law of his wife Louisa's sister, Henrietta Maria Lockman Corson, who married his son Richard.

Henrietta Maria Lockman was married to Richard, the son of Cornelius the 6th, in 1820. They resided with his father until his decease in 1832, with their children, Cornelius the 7th, Julia Ann, Mary Louisa and Catharine Eliza.

Henrietta Maria Lockman Corson's sister, Julia Lockman, married Commodore Timothy Green Benham, of the United States Navy, and thus became the aunt of his son, the late Admiral Andrew A. E. K. Benham, of the United States Navy, whose will I drew and had probated in Richmond County.

Her sister, Emeline Lockman, married Charles

Moore, Esq., of England, who had for many years charge of the State documents for the English Government between Canada and Washington, D. C.

Their mother, Catharine Crowal, the daughter of Catharine Chadwick, married Samuel Lockman March 16th, 1790. (See Clute, p. 402.)

The issue of Cornelius Corson (Coursen) the 6th, the son of Cornelius the 5th, were as follows:

RICHARD, his eldest son, who married Henrietta Maria Lockman, the daughter of Samuel Lockman, in the year 1820.

His grandchildren, JANE BRANTINGHAM, the wife of Robert Brantingham, and MARY ANN FLAKE, the wife of John Flake, who were the children of Jane Simonson, a deceased daughter of Cornelius the 6th.

And his grandchildren, CORNELIUS, JANE and WILLIAM LEONARD CORSON, who were the children of William Corson, a deceased son of Cornelius the 6th.

I have in my possession the riding spur of Cornelius the 6th, presented to me by my grandmother, Henrietta Maria Corson, as an heirloom.

The following is a copy of the deed of land he sold to Cornelius, the father of Commodore Vanderbilt, and which was their home on Staten Island several years prior to its purchase.

BARGAIN AND SALE DEED DATED APRIL 21st, 1803, RECORDED IN RICH-MOND COUNTY IN LIBER "G" OF DEEDS, PAGE 80, ON APRIL 22nd, 1803.

CORNELIUS CORSON
and JANE CORSON
his wife (name of his first wife)
To

CORNELIUS VANDERRILT

Know all men by these presents that we Cornelius Corson of the County of Richmond farmer and Jane his wife for and in consideration of the sum of Fifty cents to us in hand paid and other good and valuable causes and consideration as hereunto moving have granted Bargained and sold and set over and by these presents do grant Bargain and Sell assign and set over unto Cornelius Vanderbilt of the same county all our estate right title dower and interest into the premises mentioned and contained in the written indenture of Release: To have and to hold the same unto the said Cornelius Vanderbilt his heirs and assigns forever.

In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals this Twenty first day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and three.

Signed scaled and delivered in the presence of CORNELIUS BEDELL RICHARD CORSON.

Richmond County and State of New York be it remembered that on the 22nd day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and three personally appeared before me Cornelius Bedell one of the Judges of the Court of Common pleas in and for the said county the above Cornelius Corson and Jane his wife and did severally acknowledge that they signed sealed and delivered the above article or deed of acquitance unto Cornelius Vanderbilt for the uses and purposes therein mentioned and Jane the wife of the said Cornelius Corson being by me separately examined.

Of the 1803 deed, which describes the premises as "all our right title dower and interest into the premises in the written indenture of release," the records show that this release referred to in the deed was never recorded, but was doubtless annexed to the back of the original deed, unacknowledged, not entitling it to be recorded, and was probably the original agreement of sale by installments long antedating the deed of 1803, under which they first occupied the premises before 1794, the date of the Commodore's birth, until it was conveved to them by the foregoing deed of April 21st, 1803, after the payments for its purchase had been completed in 1803. It is further evidenced that the Commodore was born there, as my grandmother had said what the Commodore had told her, supported by the fact that the Commodore, during the possession of his great wealth and during his entire lifetime, never parted with its ownership, but kept it in good state of preservation and made it the residence of his invalid daughter, in the care of the Burch and Elkins families, until her decease about the year 1868, being about the last time I well remember seeing his daughter sitting on the front piazza, as she often did. I was also acquainted with the Elkins family and frequently heard them talk of the Commodore's invalid daughter in their charge.

Commodore Vanderbilt was born May 27th, 1794. (See Clute, p. 430.) His father, Cornelius, bought this home (in a place now called Stapleton) from Cornelius Corson the 6th, April 21st, 1803. (See Liber G, p. 80; see copy of deed annexed.) My grandmother, Henrietta Maria Corson (with whom I resided until her decease in 1879) and her husband, Richard, lived from the date of their marriage, in 1820, with her father-in-law, Cornelius the 6th, until his decease in 1832, near the Vanderbilt homestead.

She frequently talked with me about the Commodore, with whom she frequently sailed in his ferry boat to Manhattan. Among other things she told me that her father-in-law, Cornelius the 6th, informed her that Cornelius, the Commodore's father, and his wife Phoebe occupied the dwelling for several years, paying for it by installments, as they were able, until it was paid for, when he gave them a deed in 1803 (a copy of which deed is annexed), nine years after the birth of the Commodore in 1794.

She also told me that the Commodore had told her that he was born in the same house and remarked that her father-in-law (Cornelius the 6th) had been very kind to his parents and let them pay for the place as they were able.

The fact that the Commodore's parents lived there a long period before they owned it is confirmed by the language of the annexed copy of the deed of 1803, referring to the release or agreement to purchase for a description of the premises thereby conveyed and the nominal consideration of fifty cents recited in the deed.

RICHARD CORSON was the eldest son of Cornelius Coursen the 6th; married Henrietta Maria, a daughter of Samuel Lockman. They resided on the Corson estate, located on the east shores of Staten Island, between the villages now known as Clifton and Stapleton, with his father, Cornelius the 6th, until the decease of his father in 1832, and where my mother, Mary Louisa Corson Ullman, and Cornelius the 7th were born.

Richard Corson, the son of Cornelius the 6th, died in his residence at Clifton, adjoining the estate of Cornelius the 6th and formerly a part thereof, devised by his father, on October 1st, 1844. (See Letters of Administration granted to his wife, Henrietta Maria, on March 15th, 1845; Liber "A" of Administrations, p. 52, in Richmond Co. Surrogate's Office.)

Their issue were as follows:

SAMUEL, born in 1821; died in infancy.

JULIA ANNA, born June 10th, 1823; wife of James A. Van Auken.

MARY LOUISA, born March 13th, 1830; wife of Bernard Emile Ullman.

CATHARINE ELIZA, born July 22, 1832; wife of Henry Talbot Metcalfe, a son of the Hon. Henry B. Metcalfe, the County Judge of Richmond County, N. Y.

And CORNELIUS CORSON THE 7TH, who married Elizabeth Walker, of Manhattan, N. Y. He was born October 10th, 1827, on Staten Island, in the home of his grandfather, Cornelius the 6th.

HENRIETTA MARIA CORSON, his mother, and who was the wife of Richard, the son of Cornelius the 6th, died on Staten Island, November 19th, 1879, and is buried in the churchyard of old St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, at Richmond, S. I. This old church was endowed by Queen Anne of England, 1711. (See Clute, p. 263.) Henrietta Maria Corson assigned her interest in a $5,000 mortgage left by her mother, Catharine Lockman, who died on Staten Island at a place now known as Seaside, in the year 1858, at the age of eighty-eight years. She was the widow of Samuel Lockman, deceased, whom she married March 16th, 1790. (See Clute, p. 402.) Her maiden name was Catharine Crowal, the daughter of Catharine Chadwick, who was a niece of Sir Andrew Chadwick, of England. Sir Andrew Chadwick left a large fortune held by the Crown, which the Staten Island heirs several times attempted to recover, but failed by reason of the loss of important records in the County Clerk's office at Shrewsbury, N. J., which were destroyed by fire.

HENRIETTA MARIA CORSON was my grandmother, with whom I resided from infancy. She was religious, intellectual, and refined, with a charming personality, and beloved by all who knew her.

The last remnant of the original Corsen Estate on the east shores of Staten Island and of which Cornelius the 6th died seized and possessed and devised to Richard, his son, and his wife, Henrietta, was sold and conveyed by us, as the following copy of deed will show:

N. Y. Co

RESIDENCE AT HUGUENOT PARK, S. I., OF PERCIVAL GLENROY ULLMAN

JULIA ANN VAN AUKEN, a daughter of Richard, the eldest son of Cornelius the 6th, married James A. Van Auken, of an old Albany Dutch family, in 1850. Her children were:

EDWARD IRVING, who married Eleanor Brantingham.

WILLIAM E. and LOUISA, who died unmarried.

FRANK ELLIOTT and CHADWICK, named after our

and HENRIETTA MARIA, who married Edgar N. Jessup, of Staten Island, the first cousin of Richard Morgan, who was the grandson of — Morgan, the founder of the great Morgan iron foundries and the Morgan line of Southern steamships. Richard Morgan's widow married Dr. Manderville, who for several years had his summer residence at Bellport, L. I., a short distance from my summer residence since 1892 to the present date.

CATHARINE ELIZA METCALFE, a daughter of Richard, the eldest son of Cornelius the 6th, who married Henry Talbot, a son of the Hon. Henry B. Metcalfe, County Judge of Richmond County, S. I., had the following children, to wit:

EMILY, ELIZABETH TWIGGS, HENRY, GEORGE and CHARLES, all of whom are deceased, excepting Charles and Elizabeth.

MARY LOUISA CORSON ULLMAN, a daughter of Richard, the eldest son of Cornelius the 6th, and his wife, Henrietta Maria Lockman, married her first husband, who was William Henry Bowen, a nephew of Vicar General Starrs of the Diocese of New York. Their issue was a daughter, who died in infancy.

Her second husband was Bernard Emile Ullman, whom she married July 31st, 1848. He was employed on the New York Herald staff. His father was of Austrian descent and his mother was French. He was born in Paris, France. He was a highly educated gentleman and spoke and wrote fluently the French, Spanish, English, Italian and German languages. He died in the City of Paris in 1886, where he had resided many years prior to his decease, in Rue St. Arnaud.

Mary Louisa Corson Ullman was born in the homestead of her grandfather, Cornelius the 6th, March 13th, 1830, at Clifton S. I. Her only issue surviving her was her only son:

PERCIVAL GLENROY ULLMAN, who was born at Tompkinsville, S. I., on May 29th, 1849.

Percival Glenroy Ullman, her son, married Isabelle Sarah, the daughter of William Butcher, Esq., and Emma Tucker, his wife, of St. Andries, England. Their residence since 1875 has been at Huguenot Park, Staten Island.

Percival Glenroy Ullman was admitted to the Bar of the State of New York in 1870, and practiced his profession on Staten Island and Manhattan to the present date.

Their issue were:

PERCIVAL GLENROY, JR., a counsellor at law.

ROSCOE TUCKER, who died in infancy.

ISABELLE SARAH, who married the Rev. Robert Henry Locke, an Episcopal minister, who is a nephew of the celebrated landscape painter, Alexander H. Wyant, and whose issue is:

ROBERT GLENROY DELACARTE LOCKE.

The issue of Percival Glenroy Ullman, Jr., is: REGINALD GLENROY ULLMAN.

In the course of the preparation of this family history I have examined many books and documents, both ancient and modern, of the colonial records and manuscripts in Albany City, Manhattan, Brooklyn, Staten Island and New Jersey; also hundreds of other Corson deeds, wills and instruments, and I have failed to find any evidence contrary to the fact that the French Huguenot Coursen family, beginning in New Amsterdam in 1612 with Peter Coursen the 1st, is one of the OLDEST FRENCH HUGUENOT FAMILIES IN AMERICA, as the foregoing colonial records prove.

She was a schoolmate of my mother, Mary Louisa Corson Ullman, at the Kellett Boarding Academy for young ladies, located on the Heights, near Richmond, S. I., in 1846.

Mrs. Elizabeth Corson was naturally a refined and graceful lady, well educated and an exceptionally fine pianist.

Their residence at Brookhaven, which stood upon an elevation overlooking the Great South Bay, became their permanent residence.

Their issue were:

PERCIVAL SANKSEY CORSON, who was named after myself.

Cornelius Corson the 7th sailed in a ship, in 1849, around Cape Horn, with many others, to California, when gold was first discovered in that State on January 19th, 1848. He returned to Staten Island in 1852 and remained in the State of New York until his decease.

Clute, in his History of Staten Island, on page 358 says:

The Corson Family Book

The Coursen (Corson) Family origin, and the founder of the Staten Island branch by Cornelius the 2nd, and the Pennsylavnia branch by his son, Benjamin, is an integral part of their family history. The origin of this prominent and ancient family was unknown until my discovery from extensive researches of many months of skill and labor, which developed numerous and wonderful results obtained from ancient documents and colonial records, intersely interesting and a necessary appendix to the history of the "Corson Family," by Dr. Hiram Corson.

The book is expensively and handsomely gotten up with several illustrations and contains many important and surprising facts directly connected with the family, before unknown.

There are only a few and limited number of copies for private circulation published—hereafter it will be impossible to obtain one.

Now is the time every Corson family, proud of its origin should add this important volume to their libraries, for the benefit of future descendants.

The price of the book is $4.00, which covers only the expenses of publication and outlay. The many months of personal time and labor in its preparation I donate with pleasure and pride for the benefit of our family, without charge.

Upon receipt, by P. O. order or check, for $4.00, with a distinctly written name and address of the applicant, to Robert G. Locke, care of P. G. Ullman, 45 Broadway, N. Y., Room $37, a copy will be forwarded to any member of the Corson family only—until the issue is exhausted.
